In a recent quality assessment of vinyl records crafted from our recycled materials, it was discovered that more than 700 out of 1,000 participants regarded the 100% recycled record as providing a superior listening experience compared to the virgin version.

Introducing an innovative breakthrough in the music industry, Beologic has revolutionized the way vinyl records are recycled to produce new ones. Using advanced recycling techniques, we've effectively converted used vinyl records into a sustainable resource for manufacturing brand-new records. This innovative approach minimizes waste and supports environmental sustainability by repurposing materials that would otherwise be thrown away. Our dedication to innovation and environmentally conscious practices has enabled our customers to produce high-quality, eco-friendly records that resonate to both music lovers and sustainability enthusiasts.
